

PIANO/FELDENKRAIS LESSONS
with
ALAN FRASER

Author of The Craft of Piano Playing, Canadian pianist & pedagogue Alan Fraser's presentation at the 2009 University of St. Thomas annual Summer Piano Pedagogy Workshops was for many the highlight of their week. Professor Fraser returns to the Twin Cities to give lessons in piano and Feldenkrais sessions, coinciding with the end of the 2010 University of St. Thomas Summer Piano Pedagogy Workshops June 14 – 18. Pianists will have a chance to learn the practical application of various principles from The Craft of Piano Playing.

June 18- 24

The individual Feldenkrais Functional Integration sessions will be open to pianists, other instrumentalists, athletes and dancers, in fact anyone with a movement related problem. Not only for performers in any discipline, but also for those with restricted breathing, back pain, stroke recovery and other injuries, the Feldenkrais Method offers an exciting new dimension in movement enhancement and rehabilitation.

ALAN FRASER Biographical Details

Alan Fraser enjoys an international reputation as a performer, teacher and author. After studies in Montreal he embarked on a long-standing collaboration in Yugoslavia with pianist Kemal Gekic where he developed an approach to piano technique that unlocks the hand's innate power by returning to its structure and function.

Both his book, The Craft of Piano Playing (Scarecrow Press 2003, 2nd Revised Ed. 2010) and his DVD of the same name (Maple Grove Music 2006) are now considered classics in the field and are sought after worldwide, with translations into several languages soon to appear. He has recently published a second volume entitled Honing the Pianistic Self-Image: Skeletal-Based Piano Technique (Maple Grove Music 2010) and a Study Guide (Maple Grove Music 2009) that ties in all the themes of both books and the DVD.

Fraser's approach empowers not only the advanced pianist but amateurs and beginners as well – anyone who is looking for a new way to improve his or her pianistic ability. Combining the best of the finger action and arm weight schools, Fraser links optimal hand organization to musicianship skills, creating a pianism both natural and evolved.

Alan Fraser is professor of piano at the University of Novi Sad, Serbia, and leads workshops regularly in Germany, France, the UK and North America.
